Dr. Tom Aretz is the Vice President for Global Programs at Partners HealthCare International (formally Harvard Medical International), the international arm of the Partners HealthCare System in Boston, which was founded by the Massachusetts General Hospital (MGH) and the Brigham and Women's Hospital.

Dr. Aretz is a native of Germany and received his MD degree from Harvard Medical School in 1977. He completed his Anatomic and Clinical Pathology Residency at the MGH in 1981, followed by a fellowship in CV Pathology at the MGH. He is a Program and Course Director for the Harvard Macy Institute, and has been involved in international programs since 1996. He is an Associate Professor of Pathology at Harvard Medical School having directed a major second-year course there for 13 years. He has served on many academic and hospital (IRB chairman) committees and industrial boards, and is the co-founder of three medical technology companies

Dr. Aretz has lectured and published extensively, and he has focused largely on workforce development and the design and implementation of academic programs and institutions, such as universities of health sciences, medical schools, academic medical centers and systems. He has worked in that capacity in over 30 countries including GCC countries.
