

Non-Medical Stories and Articles

Expand Your Horizons

The following mix of non-fiction and fiction writings is particularly appropriate for students of the English language because all the entries are fairly short and easy to understand – and some are accompanied by exercises to help improve your English. The short stories (fiction selections) are classic stories, written by very famous writers.

Item	Media type	Website
Article: “ Britain’s Chinese Come Out Top ”	print	http://linguapress.com/advanced/chinese-in-britain.htm
Article: “ Notting Hill Carnival: Europe’s Biggest ”	print	http://linguapress.com/advanced/notting-hillcarnival.htm
Article: “ America’s Drive-In Movie Theaters ”	print	http://linguapress.com/advanced/drive-in-movies.htm
Article: “ The Mighty Mississippi ”	print	http://linguapress.com/advanced/mighty-mississippi.htm
Advice from a billionaire: “ Words of Advice from Bill Gates ”	print	http://www.eslmonkeys.com/student/storyroom/story.php?id=17
Short Story: “ The Necklace ” by Guy de Maupassant	print	http://www.eastoftheweb.com/short-stories/UBooks/Neck.shtml
Short Story: “ The Street that Got Mislaid ” by Patrick Waddington	print	http://www.classicshorts.com/stories/mislaid.html
Short Story: “ The Happy Man ” by W. Somerset Maugham	print	http://www.miguelmllop.com/stories/stories/thehappyman.pdf